Executive Summary

This report presents a comprehensive analysis of Boyanika Store's e-commerce performance across all major Indian sales channels for the full calendar year 2022. The dataset comprises 31,047 order records spanning 21 variables including customer demographics, product categories, geographic distribution, and channel performance. The analysis aims to uncover key drivers of revenue, identify high-value customer segments, and provide actionable business recommendations.

Key Findings

- Amazon is the #1 channel with 75.2L revenue (35.5% share).
- Women customers generate 64% of total revenue.
- Sets & Kurtas together account for 73% of category revenue.
- Maharashtra is the top state with 29.9L in revenue.
- March was the peak month; November saw the lowest revenue.
- Adult age group (18–59) drives 88.7% of all revenue.
- Return rate is 5%, Cancellation rate is 2.7%.

Deep Dive – Monthly Revenue Trend

- The Mid-Year Divergence: Revenue peaked in March (19.3L) and gradually declined through the second half of the year, with November recording the lowest monthly revenue (16.2L). The festive season did not produce a significant uplift, suggesting potential for targeted promotional campaigns during October–December.

Sales vs Demographic Analysis

	Women	Men
D2C	0.7M	0.4M
Others	0.5M	0.3M
Third Party	12.4M	6.9M

- Amazon dominates with 35.5% revenue share (75.2L), followed by Myntra (23.3%) and Flipkart (21.6%). Together, Third party marketplaces contribute 80.4% of all revenue. Boyanika's own D2C channel contributes 10.2L — indicating room to grow owned channel sales through direct marketing.
- Women customers generate 64% of total revenue. The Adult age group (18–59) drives 88.7% of all revenue. Senior customers (60+) account for 8.9% and Teenagers (<18) just 2.4%.

Order Status Analysis

- The store achieves a 92.3% delivery success rate. The 5.0% return rate and 2.7% cancellation rate looks reasonable for fashion e-commerce, but represent approximately 1.7L in potential revenue recovery.

Geographic Contribution

- Maharashtra, Karnataka, and Uttar Pradesh collectively account for ~37% of total revenue, confirming the metro-state nature of the customer base. Delhi, despite being India's capital, ranks 6th — suggesting scope for targeted campaigns. North-eastern and smaller states remain largely untapped.

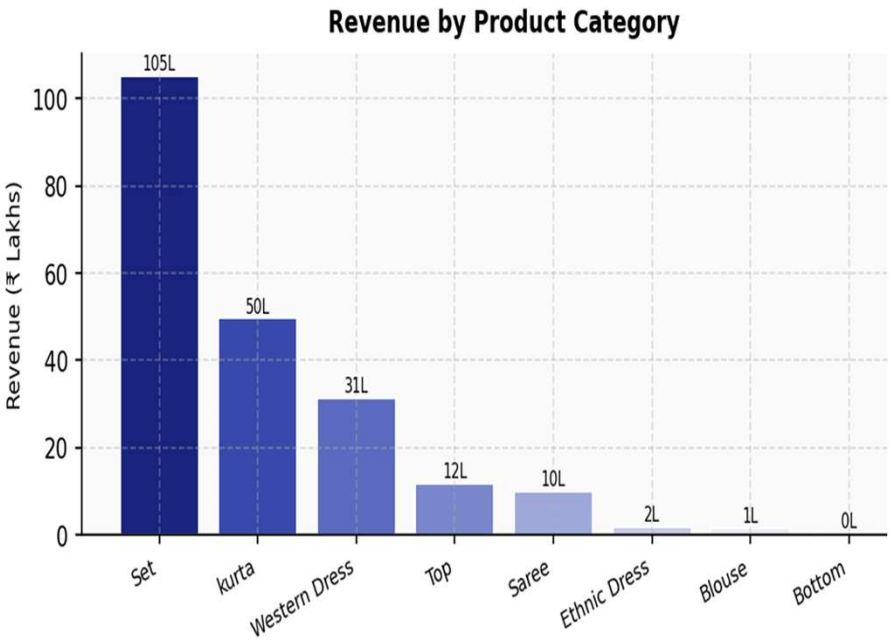
Product Category Performance

- "Set" is by far the highest-grossing category at ~10M (49.6% of revenue), followed by Kurta at ~5M. Western Dress shows strong performance at ~3.1M with a high AOV, indicating a premium customer segment. Blouse and Bottom contribute minimally and may benefit from bundling strategies.



Recommendations

- Start growing D2C channel to reduce marketplace dependency and improve margins.
- Focus on women product lines and loyalty programs as they contribute 64% of revenue.
- Bring "Set" and "Western Dress" new variety as they contribute max in revenue and AOV performance.
- Start targeting Tier-2 cities in MP, Rajasthan and Gujarat for growth beyond the current top-10 states.

Conclusion

- This analysis of Boyanika Store sales,2022 reveals a good e-commerce business with 2.12 Crore in annual revenue and strong marketplace presence. The business is predominantly driven by women customers (64%), adult age group (88.7%), and product ‘Sets’ (49.6% of category revenue).
- Third party marketplace contribution demonstrates strong marketplace execution but creates channel dominance risk. Growing the D2C channel, expanding geographic reach might show significant growth opportunities.
- The delivery success rate and manageable return/cancellation rates (7.7% combined) shows efficient operation.
- Boyanika Store’s numbers forecast’s healthy growth in 2023 and beyond.
